

Faith, hope and gorgonzola

Tro, håb og gorgonzola

by Lars Daneskov

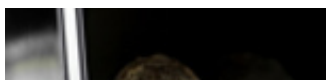

It's not easy having a mother who dreams of a big, strong man with long arms and a moustache. But having a gumball machine, a cheese bike and a reeking piece of gorgonzola at hand helps.

A madcap story about a kidnapping, a pizza guy with really hairy arms, a celebrity in high heels, a father who's been badly injured dancing the foxtrot – and about how grownups are generally quite weird people.

Children's Book of the Year 2013 in Denmark

Lars Daneskov (born 1963) is the father of four, a journalist and the author of among other titles the bestselling Far på Færde and Mummy's Got A Baby in Her Tummy from 2012.

Reviews

- Politiken

Daneskov knows how to write for children. It's as simple as that

- Ekstra Bladet

Lars Daneskov has written a wonderful book that is tremendously entertaining. With humour he tells us a story filled with fun, games and a good deal of earnestness
